Gov. Landon Denounces New Deal "Destitution" Threat For Relief Cases

Republican Presidential Nominee Says Administration Trying "To Poison Public Mind by Vicious Misrepresentations."

BLEAKLEY'S LASH

G. O. P. gubernatorial candidate charges Lehman with assuming "Mantle of Rabble-Rouser."

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 10 (AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon renewed his presidential campaign for Ohio's 26 electoral votes today with a denunciation of the New Deal as "endeavoring to coerce thousands of voters by threatening those on relief with destitution unless they vote right."

"It is trying to poison the mind of the public with a campaign of vicious misrepresentations," Landon said in a speech prepared for delivery before a rally of party workers. It opened a day of active rear platform campaigning before reaching Columbus where he planned to attend the Ohio State-Pitt football game.

The Republican candidate entered Ohio for the second time since his nomination after opening his late states campaign in Chicago last night with a demand that voters "must put the spenders out" and a pledge to balance the federal budget within four years if elected. He proposed to do this by eliminating "wholesale waste and extravagance" and by "efficient administration."

Cites Roosevelt
Directly quoting Franklin D. Roosevelt seven times, Landon cited the words of "candidate Roosevelt" at Pittsburgh four years ago as reasons "why balancing the budget is of vital importance" and asserted the New Deal's fiscal policies "will wreck the government."

Landon told the party rally here the 1936 presidential contest was "the battle of our century" and that New Deal procedure "has violated the fundamental principles of the Democratic party."

"The Democratic party," Landon said, "is the party of the people. The other day they were given a New Deal all right. They found overnight that they had been sold down the river. Their candidates deserted them."

"A last desperate effort had been made to auction their votes to stave off defeat for the national machine. There is a New Deal for you. And Minnesota is not the only state in which this same sort of sordid bartering has taken place."

"We are opposed by the most powerful propaganda machine ever assembled on American soil," the candidate continued. "Voluntary contributions do not pay for its operation. It is financed in a large part out of the public treasury. That means our money is paying for it."

This machine is manned in large part by federal office holders. It is allocating public funds up and down the country on the eve of the election for the obvious purpose of attempting to sway the electorate. This makes our job hard but by no means an impossible one."

The Republican candidate's stop here was the first of a series taking him through Hamilton, West Middletown, Dayton, Springfield and London enroute to Columbus.

Spoke to Capacity
Landon's Chicago speech was delivered to a capacity in the huge Chicago Stadium seating 26,000. Made from the same platform on which President Roosevelt accepted the Democratic nomination in 1932, the address marked the opening of the candidate's eight-day campaign through Illinois, Ohio, Michigan and Indiana whose combined 83 electoral votes were regarded by his aides as of key importance.

"If I am elected," Landon said at the outset of his Chicago speech, "the budget is going to be balanced." This, he said, would be accomplished without "depriving our needy of relief, not by refusing necessary aid to our farmers, not by swamping the country with taxes."

"The budget is going to be balanced by cutting our waste and extravagance; by putting an end to the use of public funds for political purposes; by restoring hard-working, rain-making, common sense administration," he said.

Landon's opening remarks brought forth an eight-minute outburst of cheering and applause.

Weakley's Lash
In route with Bleakley campaign caravan, Oct. 10 (AP)—William F. Bleakley, Republican candidate for governor, turned to update New York again today after leaving out at Governor Herbert H. Lehman for assuming "the mantle of rabble-rouser."

From his opening campaign stop in predominantly Democratic Brooklyn where he appeared with Col. Frank Knox, the party's vice-presidential candidate, Bleakley headed for Genesee and Westfield before a dash across southern New York to Binghamton for a major speech tonight.

The candidate said he planned to discuss further New York state's tax problems and to deal again with criticism of WPA administration.

The former Yankee football star said last night at his Binghamton stop that he had ignored the necessity of

Scout Campaign Gets Off to a Fine Start Friday Night

About 100 enthusiastic workers met Friday evening for dinner at the Y. M. C. A. to start the local district Boy Scout finance campaign.

Chairman Freer called the meeting to order and after singing America the Rev. C. E. Brown, pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, gave the invocation. A very delightful dinner was enjoyed by all. Paul Zucca led the singing with the assistance of Dan Blittner at the piano.

Chairman Freer in presiding said that they had this year secured a larger number of workers than in any previous year for the Boy Scout campaign and certainly the enthusiasm shown at the dinner meeting argued well for the success of the effort. Chairman Freer thanked all for their interest and urged every one to push on as rapidly as possible so that the task could be completed within the seven days time.

Mr. Freer then asked Scout Executive Wright to explain the details of the campaign. Mr. Wright said that the reports coming into the office from the outside territory showed a large number of new subscriptions this year, with many people increasing over previous years, adding that the average subscription is higher this year than during the past several years.

Following Mr. Wright's explanation of the mechanics of the campaign the workers selected their cards and were under way.

The first report of the campaign is to be made Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. with dinner at 6:30 and concluding at 7:30.

Steps Up Working Hours
Rome, Oct. 10 (AP)—Premier Mussolini stepped up the weekly work schedule to 60 hours today in a labor order designed to increase production of war materials by 1,200 industries.

On Mr. Duce's recommendation the cabinet raised the number of naval enlistments to 60,000 men. The labor production plan, the premier said, was designed principally to increase the output of factories manufacturing supplies for the air force and the navy. Construction of airplanes, he asserted, has "reached a satisfactory daily figure but is not yet sufficient according to the pre-established plan."

Hindenburg Fines Home
New York, Oct. 10 (AP)—High above the North Atlantic, the luxury German liner Hindenburg sailed homeward today for the last time this season, leaving behind some of America's wealthiest business men, trying to figure out how to finance the building of Zeppelins here to compete with the German air queen.

REGISTER TODAY

Polling places in the 12 wards of the city will be open until 10 o'clock tonight. If you do not register you cannot vote at the general election in November.

Do it today and get it over with and be assured of your vote this fall. Early registration is always preferable because something later may prevent performing this important duty.

In unanimously nominating Cleon B. Murray to succeed himself as district attorney of Ulster county the Republicans in convention assembled not only paid a tribute to ability in office but showed their appreciation of the fact—and a fact it is—that the people of the county have many times demonstrated by their votes a preference for tried and experienced men in this office upon which their protection from the criminal elements depends.

In perhaps no other office is experienced such a prime requisite—experience that has been gained by actually performing the duties that pertain to the office. Ability and legal training are of course necessary—and even his opponents admit that District Attorney Murray possesses both of these qualifications—but neither can take the place of experience gained through prosecuting criminals, with the resultant knowledge acquired of their methods and the workings of their minds. On the other hand this same knowledge and experience is of great importance in teaching the prosecuting officer when to temper justice with mercy and to realize the lack of criminal intent in cases that may come under his jurisdiction. Further than this, by accepting pleas in cases where proof may not be as complete as experience would deem necessary, the district attorney who "knows the ropes" is often enabled to further the ends of justice and at the same time save the taxpayers of the county money that would be spent in useless and ineffective trial proceedings.

Has Been the Rule Here
As has been stated, this preference for an experienced district attorney is nothing unusual in Ulster county and from early days long tenure in office will be noticed. As an example, during the past 50 years every district attorney who has sought re-election has been elected to serve at least three terms. Among those who might be named are Judge Clearwater, Judge Cantline, Judge Cunningham and Judge Traver.

Troublesome Times Coming
It might be suggested that at no time in many years has there been need for the election of a proved and experienced county prosecuting officer to serve in the years immediately ahead, as at the coming election. Reference is had to the fact that New York is about to construct a huge dam at Lackawanna, in Ulster county. With the influx of thousands of people from outside the county seeking employment on this project, heavy responsibilities will be placed upon the district attorney's office. There are few residents of the county who will not remember the tremendous addition to the duties of the district attorney's office during the construction of the Ashokan dam and the High Falls aqueduct, and they will not need to be reminded that an experienced district attorney, schooled in the position and able to secure the cooperation of all law enforcement agencies, will be needed.

Has Had Long Training
This need for experience will more than be met by the re-election of District Attorney Cleon B. Murray. A practicing attorney for 21 years, he has a thorough knowledge of the law and particularly of the criminal law. Early in his career he served as police justice of the village of Ellenville. District Attorney Frederick G. Traver appointed him assistant district attorney and for eight years he held that position, gaining invaluable experience and knowledge of the workings of the office. When Mr. Traver was nominated for county judge, to succeed Judge Joseph M. Fowler, it was logical choice to succeed to the position of district attorney and he was named without opposition. He carried the county by 5,700 votes, his home town of Wawarsing giving him a majority of 937.

Made Outstanding Record
Mr. Murray made an outstanding record during his first term in office, among cases which he successfully prosecuted and which were of famous public interest, being the famous Mosen and Rose case and the Irish Quick murder case. Convictions were secured in both cases. The Mosen and Rose case was carried to the appellate division, but the conviction obtained by Mr. Murray was sustained.

Given Increased Popularity
Mr. Murray was unanimously re-nominated in 1933 and running on the record he had made during his first term in office was again elected, but by largely increased majorities. In the 1933 election he carried Ulster county by over 7,000 majority, the city of Kingston giving him a majority of 2,194.

His second term, now drawing to a close, has shown a continuation of the activity displayed during his first three years in office. Among the

Rebels Cut Railroad Into Madrid, Severing Touch With East Coast of Spain

Food Artery and Avenue of Escape by Rail for Government Officials Suffers Havoc When Attacked by Bombers.

LOYAL OFFENSIVE

Red Militia Goes Out to Attack Fascists; Three Nations to Protest Soviet Charge.

Burgos, Spain, Oct. 10 (AP)—Insurgent bombardment of Aranjuez, important communications center 29 miles southeast of Madrid, has cut the only remaining railroad link between the capital and the eastern coast, Fascist officials asserted today.

Insurgent bombing planes attacked Aranjuez and the rail line running through it, the high command declared, wreaking great damage on the Madrid-Valencia Railroad.

The attack was made with a double purpose, Fascist officials said. By cutting Madrid off, supplies of food for the capital and Socialist militiamen along the battlefront would be blocked from the principal provincial centers along the eastern coast.

In addition, the final railway avenue of escape for fleeing government officials—in the event the capital falls to the insurgents—would be destroyed. The only route left toward Valencia would be the improved highway running from Madrid southeast through Aranjuez.

Insurgent commanders announced capture of two towns in the sector south of Avila where a Fascist "mop up" squad apparently was in action—San Juan De La Nava and Barraco.

(Both lie directly west of the strategic junction point of San Martin De Valdegiglesia, which fell Thursday to the Fascists.)

The high command indicated a projected troop concentration would be centered against El Escorial, 60 miles northwest of Madrid, and 11 miles northwest of Madrid.

The insurgent officers denied reports of a government victory at Oviedo, Socialist-besieged provincial capital on the northern battlefront.

Reds on Offensive
Madrid, Oct. 10 (AP)—Bedraggled government militiamen fought furiously today in a renewed government offensive at Pelayos as syndicalists in Madrid charged "inactivity breeds demoralization."

Backed by artillery, the war-weary Socialist troops concentrated a desperate attempt to regain the strategic town of San Martin De Valdegiglesia from positions 43 miles due west of Madrid.

The offensive was launched as syndicalists in the capital criticized defensive operations, asserting: "Our forces should be sent to march on insurgent attackers in Madrid by asserting Fascists had claimed assistance, during the final drive, from a 'fifth column inside the capital.'"

(Dispatches concerning the "inside" column were cut drastically by the Spanish censor although indications were given mass arrests of Fascist suspects followed the newspaper's story.)

On the Pelayos front, three government six-inch guns rained steel on insurgent encampments along the eastern outskirts of San Martin.

Protest Against Soviet
London, Oct. 10 (AP)—Three Fascist nations of Europe, accused by Russia of sending illegal aid to Spanish insurgents, were reported considering today a formal protest against the charges to the Moscow government.

Italy, Germany and Portugal pondered the provocative action, informal sources said, as their representatives relaxed after a noisy, tense session of the international committee attempting to isolate the Spanish civil war.

During the meeting, Diego Grandi, Premier Mussolini's delegate and ambassador to London, called the Soviet representative a liar, "caeratically refuted and repudiated every single point of the allegations against Italy," and turned the Russian accusations upside down to declare Moscow was assisting the Madrid government.

Francisco Caldeiros of Portugal, who withdrew personally from the raucous assembly, and Prince Otto Von Bismarck of Germany in turn denied the allegations made by Moscow's Kagan, representing Russia.

Eight hours of heated debate brought these results. Russia decided not to cancel her membership in the international association charged with trying to keep the Spanish conflict on a domestic basis.

The committee agreed a Soviet proposal to appoint an investigating commission to determine whether foreign aid were being sent into Spain through Portugal should await receipt of a formal answer from the Lisbon government.

Italy, Germany and Portugal were given time to answer complaints of sending Spanish Fascists, which were first laid before the group by the Madrid government and, because of the time element, took precedence

French Reds Cut Number Of Meetings in Alsace To 10 by Paris Pressure

General Apprehension Runs High, However, Due to Arrival of Guards, Marching Peasants and Rightist Plans.

BERLIN DENIES

Nazis Deny That Frontier Guards Had Been Reinforced by Schutz-Staffel Men.

Strasbourg, France, Oct. 10 (AP)—France's Communist party, yielding to stiff government dictates, cut its scheduled week-end mass meetings in Alsace-Lorraine to ten today, but the concession failed to end a state of feverish tension in the closely-guarded "lost provinces."

With unconfirmed reports stating German frontier guards, in some sections, had been doubled; with scores of squadrons of French mobile guards pouring into the sector; with rumors of marching peasants and a united Rightist plan to break up even the 10 "authorized" Communist meetings, general apprehension ran higher hourly.

The first test comes tonight when Communist meetings, authorized by the government, are scheduled to be held at Metz, Waldambach and Bischwiller.

Reports of Nazi Guards
Reports reaching authorities here that Adolf Hitler's black-clad "Schutz-Staffel" men, had reinforced the German frontier guard were followed by word from Metz that the Lorraine guard on the German side had been doubled.

(Berlin denied that "SS" men had been sent to the Alsace-Lorraine frontier as border reinforcements, saying the increased members of the formation seen there were merely traffic police.)

In Metz, with a Communist meeting scheduled for tonight, there were reports that Communists had received arms and that thousands of Rightist peasants were planning to march on the city, swinging pitchforks and scythes.

Demonstration Planned
The peasants planned a counter-demonstration for tomorrow. The "front of true Alsace," a union of Rightist parties, rushed orders to peasants in the fields for mass counter-attacks, planned even against the "authorized" Communist gatherings.

With more than 2,500 French mobile guards being poured into the disturbed regions from other sectors, the Rightists were represented as promising not to fight the guardsmen, but to concentrate breaking up any meeting of the Communists.

Along with the reports of German frontier reinforcements, French authorities said they had no intention of withdrawing their own augmented armed units from Alsace-Lorraine.

At Metz, the French Social party of Col. Francois De La Rocque distributed handbills appealing to the people to join in the projected counter-demonstrations against the Communists.

The regional Communist committee, simultaneously, appealed for "discipline and order."

Metz, on the eve of one of the scheduled Communist meetings, was tense but calm, with mobile guards, brought up to guard against disorders, held in their barracks.

Berlin's Denial
Berlin, Oct. 10 (AP)—The propaganda ministry asserted today French reports that German frontier guards had been reinforced by Schutz-Staffel men on the Alsace-Lorraine border were "absolutely untrue."

It was possible, the ministry acknowledged, that more "SS" men had been seen in that area recently as the result of recent unification of the Reich's police, but these were traffic police, and not connected with events in France.

MECHANICAL COTTON PICKER STUDIED BY TWO CONTINENTS
Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 10 (AP)—A mechanical cotton picker invented by John and Mack Rust of Memphis was under scrutiny on two continents today.

Mack worked here on further improvements to the machine, which is now picking cotton on Mississippi plantations, while his brother prepared to demonstrate the picker for the Soviet government in Turkmenia.

Treasury Receipts
Washington, Oct. 10 (AP)—The position of the treasury October 9: Receipts, $12,730,290.54; expenditures, $22,458,248.57; net balance, $1,091,736,139.03; customs receipts, $1,137,344,495.33; expenditures, $1,857,984,084.13, including $688,742,378.54 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $621,639,588.80; gross debt, $13,926,298,046.60; a decrease of $1,344,204.35 under the previous day; gold assets, $10,975,679,634.10.

over almost identical later Russian charges.

The committee voted to put the world's accusations against the three nations "to the most searching examination" which "should be carried through with the greatest possible speed."

Schirick Releases 4-Point Ruling in Woodstock Case

Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick today handed down his decision in the Woodstock local option matter and as a result of the proceedings thus far there have not been struck from the petition sufficient names to make the petition invalid. This will mean that if the "wets" seek to prevent the submitting of the local option question to the voters of the town on election day, they will have to take additional oral testimony in an attempt to show that at least 51 of the remaining signatures were obtained by means of fraudulent misrepresentations.

Some time ago 379 persons, claiming to be electors of the town of Woodstock, signed a petition which was filed with the town clerk asking that the question of local option in the town be submitted to the voters at the fall election. This petition was duly filed with the town clerk within the time allocated by law and was filed with the Board of Elections within the time specified by law.

After the petition had been filed application was made by four electors of the town for an order restraining the Board of Elections and the Town Clerk of Woodstock from printing official ballots and the submission to the electorate of the local option question as provided by Article 9 of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law. The action came into Supreme court under the provisions of Section 330 of the Election Law and is authorized by Section 144 of the A. B. C. Law.

4-Point Attack
The validity of the petition is attacked on four general grounds all of which are determined by Justice Schirick in his memorandum which was written after argument of the matter at special term last week.

The objections claim the petition is not valid because, first, some of the signatures were improperly or incompletely affixed; second, that some of the separate pages of the petition were improperly authenticated; third, that some of the signatures were induced to sign by means of fraudulent misrepresentations as to the purpose of the document which they were about to sign.

Justice's Memorandum
In his memorandum Justice Schirick takes up each of the four contentions.

The first objection is over-ruled on the grounds that the signatures are those of electors of the town within the meaning of the law except in one case, that of Alice L. Owen, who is not an elector of the town of Woodstock.

The second objection, the memorandum states, has "more merit." The court holds that there must be a

Two of Father Divine's Flock Not Allowed to Take Literacy Test Under Names of "Satisfied Love," "Beautiful Love."

REGISTER TONIGHT

Polling Places Open Tonight; State Figures Running Ahead of 1932 in Many Cities.

While Kingstonites rushed to the polls yesterday to register to the tune of 4,861, one of the largest first day registrations in years and surpassing the record registration of 1935, the influx of disciples of Father Divine failed to put in an appearance at the polling places. At the same time it was announced by Col. Frank L. Meagher, in charge of literacy tests for first voters, that 30 certificates had been issued and of that number 20 were required to take the literacy test before registration.

Two of Father Divine's flock appeared for the tests but upon refusal to give names other than "Satisfied Love" and "Beautiful Love," they were not permitted to take the tests. Col. Meagher stated today that they would be permitted to take the tests, if they gave their true names, which would appear at the side of their names since joining the cult.

In the 1935 mayoralty campaign Kingston's first day's registration was 3,779 and in 1934 the first day total was 1,617. The polls will be open again this evening for those who wish to register during this first period.

The registration by voting districts in the city follows:

First ward	425
Second ward	299
Third ward	429
Fourth ward	185
Fifth ward	235
Sixth ward	1st dist. 178
Seventh ward	2nd dist. 168
Eighth ward	1st dist. 128
Ninth ward	2nd dist. 268
Tenth ward	1st dist. 268
Eleventh ward	2nd dist. 201
Twelfth ward	1st dist. 189
Thirteenth ward	2nd dist. 426
Total	4,861

The Divine disciples, both negro women, refused to give names other than those taken since joining the evangelist and consequently under the rule they were not allowed to take the test which, had they passed it, would have allowed them to register and vote.

As far as is known the only followers of the negro leader living in Kingston are those at the "Heavenly extension" on Chapel street in Wilbur. Inquiry at the polling place in the 13th ward brought forth the information that none of the Divinites had attempted to register yesterday or until noon today. "We have our instructions in case they do," said a member of the board, "and the instructions are from the county election board. We intend to follow these instructions to the letter."

Col. Meagher announced that literacy tests would again be given at the high school from 4 to 10 o'clock on next Friday. School No. 3 will be open for the tests on the same date from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. On Saturday Col. Meagher will be at the high school from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Election Board Ruling
The Ulster County Board of Elections this year in order to avoid confusion on registration days in the county has issued the following instruction to all sections of the county: That whenever persons are applying to be registered under a religious name, they may be registered provided that they give their true name and that such true name will be recorded in the registrations books along side the religious names.

The following Associated Press dispatch may alter this ruling:

New York, Oct. 10 (AP)—If the followers of Father Divine want to be known in the polling places as Beasts Light, Fiery Beasts of Peace, or Tree of Life, no one shall say them say.

Supreme Court Justice William T. Collins' ruling granting the "analog" of the Harlem Heaven the right to register under their spiritual names, was published today.

Two hundred daily-clad disciples of the negro leader greeted the ruling with a laugh and a hurrah.

By The Associated Press
Registration in various cities of New York state was running well ahead of 1932 today as voters continued to qualify for the general election in November.

Increases occurred in upstate municipalities of both major parties, as well as in New York city where registration began five days ago. Upstate registration began yesterday.

Kitty—We agreed perfectly, but unfortunately Sandy met a girl whose birthday fell on Christmas Day.

We know a fellow who speaks so many languages that he has to hire an interpreter when he talks to himself.

Mike—That's a queer pair of stockings you have on, Pat—one red and the other green.
Pat—Yes; and I've got another pair like it at home.

Young man—The whole sky seems brighter, since I kissed you!
Sweet Young Thing—Yes, your kiss was so long it's now morning.

Common sense is all right of course, but it's so dingbusted unfashionable.

An electrician was examining an electric refrigerator that was using too much electricity and could not find the reason. He idly asked the cook:

Electrician—How do you like the refrigerator?
Cook—Ah, I like it fine. Ah, opens the door and it cools off the kitchen in fine shape.

Another payment badly in arrears is the wages of sin... and how!

Mrs. Clingersworth—Are you certain this is a genuine antique?
Dealer—Not only that, madam, but I can assure you truthfully that it is the very latest thing in antiques.

We still have the old hokum bucket, but it doesn't hang down by the well.

Ellie—Got any gum?
Stella—Yes, but it is busy just at present.

WEST HURLEY
West Hurley, Oct. 10—Mrs. Charles Merritt of Pelham, N. Y., has been visiting her friend, Mrs. John D. Groves, the last week.

David McDonald and family of Brooklyn are spending some time at their cottage here.

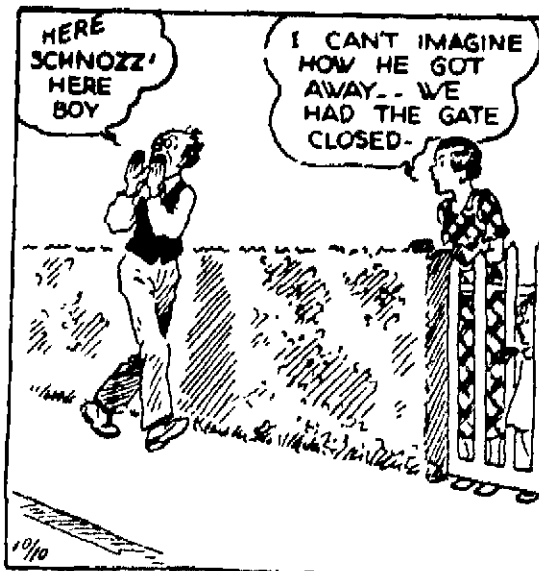

Mrs. John Saxe, Mrs. Matthew Williams and Mrs. John D. Groves have returned from their tour through New England. They stopped at Glens Falls where Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Williams' sister, joined the party. During the trip many points of interest were visited.

Politicians' pre-election claims are based on the good old doctrine that "them as has, gets."

High School News

On Saturday, October 3, the Negative Debating team of the Kingston High School traveled to Poughkeepsie under the supervision of Miss Marion Byrne, coach of debating. The annual debate conference was held in the Poughkeepsie High School, where the teams of Newburgh, Ossining, Middletown, Liberty, Peekskill, Highland, Arlington, New Paltz, and Poughkeepsie, participated in several minor debates. The Kingston team, having had previous experience, presented an exhibition debate with the New Paltz affirmative subject "Resolved: That Intercollegiate Debating Should Be Given Credit Toward High School Graduation."

The Kingston team lost the debate, although Edward N. West, who has been active on the Oxford debating team, in his criticism gave the speakers many excellent points in their favor. The Kingston Negative team, composed of Adam Mouton, first speaker, Arthur London, second, and Evelyn Olivet, third, made a fine showing in their first debate. Although they were handicapped by the short time allowed them to assemble their material, and although they were rated as experienced when two of the members were new to the team, Kingston showed promise of good, logical debaters, who will hold their own in more difficult debates of the school year 1936-1937.

Prisma, the girls' organization interested in helping the high school in all possible ways, has again performed a good deed. At half-price, Prisma purchased 20 tickets to the series of programs in which Albert Spalding, the violinist, Helmi Olheim, Carola Goya, Spanish dancers, and the Russian Imperial Singers appear. The tickets sold rapidly to very enthusiastic students.

To the high school student submitting the best essay on the topic: "Should Youth Take An Active Part in Politics?" the magazine, "Order" is awarding a $5 prize. Manuscripts must be written on one side of paper only, either clearly in ink, or type-written. Full name, address, high school which the student attends, and his class and rank must be given. Manuscripts must be mailed before midnight, January 31, 1937. Each entry must be accompanied by a clipping of this announcement, obtained from a sample copy of the magazine. Address: Boggs, editor, Woodstock, N. Y.

The High School Parents' Association will hold its first meeting in the library of the Kingston High School Tuesday, October 20. The topic to be discussed will be: "What does the school do to help Freshman?"

Priscilla Nolan, who is the president of the Tri-Hi Club, announces a dance which the members will give on October 23.

A number of the high school students traveled to Newburgh in order to hear Admiral Byrd's lecture. They were excused from afternoon classes, as this event was of educational value. To emphasize points in his lecture Admiral Byrd used 9,000 feet of film.

What was the presidential election taking place this year, the senior elections may seem very minor; but they are important to the high school, especially the senior class. A different system is being used this year. Each senior roll-call room elected one representative to function on the nominating committee, which will nominate a slate of officers, to be approved by the entire class. Mr. Culver, faculty advisor to the senior class, feels that this system will eliminate hasty popular choices, that might result under the former methods.

The Dramatic Club, under the supervision of Miss Tarrant, teacher of public speaking, has made interesting plans for the year. The members are planning to present a play to the public. With the money collected from tickets of admission, the club will travel to New York city to see one of the popular plays on the Broadway stage.

Mrs. Mildred Wylie has been appointed to assist in the National Youth Administration work connected with the high school. Her assignment will be to audit the time sheets, and to prepare the quadruple reports for Albany.

The Kingston High School was represented at the State N. Y. A. conference by Mr. Hoderath, instructor in the Manual Training Building. Mr. Hoderath spoke during one of the round-table discussions.

There are nearly 41 different subjects taught in the high school. Due to the large attendance, the auditorium has been put to study-hall use to relieve the surplus in the regular halls.

A girls' field hockey team is being organized, with Miss Baltz as the coach.

There are approximately 21 different clubs conducted for the interest and amusement of the students.

Some 5,000 book covers were cut from rolls of heavy manila paper, and distributed to all rooms. This covering of books is considered necessary from the sanitary as well as the economic viewpoint.

The Kingston High School, as registered by the fire commissioners, can be entirely emptied of 2,000 persons in one minute and 34 seconds, during the practice fire drills.

The first report card period ends October 23. Principal Dumm at the High School meeting on October 10, will explain what the report card marks indicate.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Soft Pickin's
Clifton Heights, Pa.—Iron bars make a prison in some places but not in Clifton Heights.
They started a prisoner off in cell No. 1.
He picked the lock and walked out.
But they caught him, and this time put him in Cell No. 2. Chief of Police Charles Duke stood outside and dared him to pick that one.
"Oh," the prisoner yawned, "that's potatoes for me. I can pick any lock."
He did, right in front of the chief. So they took him over to the jail in neighboring Lansdowne.

Cleanup Wanted
Cleveland — County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullinan was right in the middle of a $1,000,000 police graft investigation when the mailman tossed a postcard in his lap. It read: "A Chinese laundry has got a package of my laundry I left to be done. It seems he has sold out. If he doesn't pay for it or produce it, I'll smash up his joint. See if you can get it for me."

Helpmeet
Chicago—Wife No. 2 paid off wife No. 1 to get Edward Kaplan out of jail.
Kaplan was incarcerated for being $300 in arrears in alimony to his former wife, Sara. His present wife, Trudy, borrowed $100 from friends, gave it to Sara and obtained her husband's release after he promised to make up the rest of the arrears.

Slipping
Milwaukee—Edward E. Little, 32, is sorry he didn't stay in Chicago or Kansas City.
Police said Little, who was arrested for burglary five days after his arrival, told them:
"I pulled 40 jobs in Chicago and 61 in Kansas City without the slightest difficulty. Then I come here and after five jobs get plunked in the jug."

Bible Conference
The Prophetic Bible Conference now being carried on at the Christian and Missionary Alliance, located at 203 Greenkill avenue, is drawing much interest as the Rev. F. L. Holden of the Practical Bible Training Institute, Bible School Park, N. Y., uses a large colored chart to illustrate his messages. The speaker's subject on this evening will be the third in his series on "God's Chosen People—When the Tail Becomes the Head." Sunday afternoon, "Four Decades of Fulfilled Prophecy," showing how the Zionist movement is fulfilling many Old Testament and New Testament prophecies and indicates the near return of the Lord. Sunday evening, "The Mark of the Beast." This will be the 143rd time this lecture will be heard. The evening services are held at 7:45 and the Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The pastor, the Rev. L. H. Luck, expects the meeting room to be filled to capacity and urges those interested to come early to get a good seat.

Adolf Hitler, according to him, is the greatest miracle worker in history.

Drouth-Proof Farms by

Practical Use of Power Chicago.—"Drouth-proof farms" can be made a practical reality in the future by the harnessing of cheaply generated diesel power to pump water to parched areas, according to Ralph Hemphill, president of a system of diesel schools in an address here before a conference of engineers.

Mr. Hemphill urged the adoption by the federal government of a program to finance the purchase by farmers in the "dust bowl" of small diesel engine units and the installation of adequate wells and pumping facilities. "The tragedy of drouth is not lack of water, but lack of the means of obtaining it," he said. "Water flows underground. It passes farmsteads in streams and creeks, yet crops perish. At a cost of but a few cents per acre, a diesel engine can provide water for sections of stricken farms."

"By this means complete loss of crops can be obviated and the average farmer can be enabled to raise at least enough to feed himself and family and provide fodder for his stock."

Carr & Son Purchase Large Lot Formerly Of C. E. Everett

Arthur G. Carr has purchased the Charles E. Everett Estate the large lot with 70 feet frontage on Pearl street and adjoining the undertaking establishment and funeral parlors of A. Carr & Son, corner of Pearl street and Clinton avenue.

Workmen have been busy the past week grading and rolling the rear portion of the lot and building a driveway with entrance from Pearl street. This part of the lot will be used as a parking ground in connection with the funeral directing business, adding immeasurably to their facilities and the convenience of those who patronize this well known establishment.

The front portion of the lot will be landscaped, with a hedge along the drive and ornamental trees and shrubbery set out, altogether making a fine improvement to that section. Mr. Carr said this morning that improvements to the present building were also contemplated.

The entire property, including the lot just purchased, was at one time owned and occupied by the late Judge Alton B. Parker. Mr. Carr purchased the residence property on the corner and has since utilized it for his funeral directing business. The remaining portion of the property was later purchased by Mr. Everett, who at one time planned to erect a house there, but his plan was never carried out.

Physicians Aid Elizabeth Smith

New York, Oct. 10 (AP)—A picture of unwed Elizabeth Smith living in a vague "twilight state," nerveless and unthinking, for hours after the birth of her baby, was before a jury of 12 men today as the final thrust of her fight against a charge of killing the child.

Two physicians testified in the closing phase of the defense case yesterday that the pain and terror of the birth without medical or other aid killed the girl's control of her actions.

"She did not know the difference between right and wrong. Her acts on the early morning of April 11 seem clearly to have been automatic."

Thus did Dr. Joshua H. Leiner, neuro-psychiatrist, describe the 18-year-old girl's condition at the time the state charges she hurled the baby to its death from an apartment house roof.

Dr. Frances Isabelle Seymour, gynecologist and obstetrician, corroborated this theory. Both agreed the baby probably was killed by the violence of its birth.

Miss Smith testified Thursday she was unable to detect a heartbeat in the tiny body and that, numbed in mind and body, she made her way to the roof of the apartment house. There, she said, she fainted, the baby slipped from her arms and fell to the street.

The attorneys will deliver their closing arguments when court reconvenes Tuesday.

Last Sunday there were over 1,500 people at the airport watching and partaking in the activity such as students taking instruction and making their first solo flights, an "air show" which was put on by Captain Burrows, and over 200 people went for rides all over Ulster county.

Captain Burrows states that in the operations there are not going to be any glider-type planes used. He also states that in the operations here at Kingston there can be no compromise between cheap airplanes and safety.

The ships he has for commercial operations are all licensed by the United States government for Transport Duty of any nature and are of the best makes obtainable with the most dependable engine manufactured in this country.

Schirick Releases 4-Point Ruling

"Substantial compliance" with the law. The law is not complied with substantially where the subscribing witness fails to set forth the place of residence, date of last registration or address from where last tested. The memorandum states that on page 5 the witness does not state his residence. On page five and 19 the year of last registration of witness is omitted. Address from which the witness last registered is omitted from pages 9, 18, 20, 21, 22 and 24. On page 11, the memorandum states, the registration date of the witness is given as 1936, which is obviously in error, since no registration had been made when the petition was filed, for the present year. The memorandum holds that wherever the above defects exist due to error of the subscribing witness, the entire page is void. Further, in certain places subscribing witness is one of the persons who signed the page he authenticates. The court holds that no person can authenticate his own signature and ten additional names are consequently stricken off on pages 1, 4, 7, 12, 14, 16, 17, 19 and 22 for that reason.

Validity Not Affected.

The third objection in relation to retraction of signatures and those fraudulently induced is also treated by the court. He holds that the validity of the petition is not affected by retractions made subsequent to the filing of the petition. Such retractions were not made within the three day period provided for by the election law.

The fourth objection, that names were fraudulently obtained, the court holds can only be determined by taking common law proof. This proof the court holds will have to be taken through witnesses.

In summation the court states that at the last election for governor 867 votes were cast in the town for the office of governor and under the law 25% of that number of voters must sign a petition requesting the submission of the local option proposition. This means 217 signatures are required.

There were a total of 379 signatures to the petition in question. Of that number the court holds that 118 are void as a matter of law, leaving 267 legal signatures to the petition.

The burden rests on the objectors to show at least 51 of the remaining 267 signatures to have been obtained by means of fraudulent misrepresentations.

"The granting or denial of this motion depends upon the success in meeting this burden," the court concludes.

It is expected the case will go to trial probably on Wednesday before Justice Schirick.

Ballot Counting Easy With Voters in Office

Sandusky, Mich. — With Pointe Aux Barques township in Huron county seeking to be first this fall in reporting the Presidential vote by having all of its 23 votes cast early ballots, historians here recall that counting the vote here was once a simple matter.

Back in 1888, Watertown township had seven voters and all held a township office; some three or four. And in 1898 when Sanilac county included all of the present Huron and Sanilac counties and much of Tuscola county, just 13 voters were registered.

Kids Paint As They Please—And Crash A Museum

DEEP SEA DIVER

Is acquiring for its permanent collection nine paintings—three of which are shown here—by nine children 8 to 14 years old, the Museum of Modern Art in New York city recognizes the existence of an interesting child's division of the art world. Artists have long looked upon it sympathetically.

BOULEX NEWBORN

"The paintings of children," says Alfred H. Barr, Jr., director of the museum, "have for many years been admired by judges and laymen alike. These interested in modern art. The unconventionality, the inventiveness of technique and the imaginative freedom which many children show in their work has often been the envy of grown-up artists."

THE BUTCHER

The youthful painter, unhampered by theories, creates his own perspective where necessary, in order to include all that he wishes of a particular object. This is seen in the watercolor reproduced above. Modern art (from the battleground of the late 19th, early 20th century) came from a revolt against conventional expression, formalized or academic portrayal.

Fashions and Household Hints for Women

DRAMATIC NEWCOMERS

High-lit, dramatic and extremely smart is this winter coat by Del Monte Hickey. The fitted, flared line, face-framing collar and border trim are all earmarks of the new mode. It is made of dark brown wool, trimmed with skunk and has a pillow muff of the same fur.

New Close-Fitting Coats Dramatize The Figure

By ADELAIDE KERR

New York (AP)—The most dramatic winter coats the fashion world has seen have come to town. Beaver borders swirling on a full-skirted model as dashing as a Cossack's coat, silver foxes spilling down a black broadcloth breadth with four heads meeting at the waist and rich cloth molded to show a figure's most glamorous curves spell drama for modish moderns.

"Entrances" In Order

Many a smart sophisticate is going to make an entrance as theatrical as a movie star's when she steps into fashionable restaurants this winter, for the new coats are cut to draw and hold the eye.

Well in the lead are those close-fitted, flare-skirted, fur-trimmed models which bring back pictures of Russia under the czars. After them comes a more demure version of the same cut, molding the figure but less lavishly trimmed with fur and giving a hint of Victorian days. Fewer in number, but equally striking are double-breasted postilion coats with cape collars which recall the days when the world traveled by stagecoach.

Princess Model Aids Figure

The woman whose figure does not lend itself so well to dramatization is remembered with slimming princess models, trimmed with silver fox or Persian lamb and with fur swaggers. Many sports and morning coats are swaggered and bulky, others straight as a string.

There seems to be more black than ever for town coats though grays, wine reds, deep greens, smoky blues and occasional browns are seen. Broadcloth is important and plain mat wools, diagonals, hairy wools and nubby wools, whose surface resembles Persian lamb, are all present in the wool winter coat pageant.

Sports Coats Simple

Furs have been used with a lavish hand and add much dash to the designs. Wide fur borders swirling 'round hems, silver foxes swooping over shoulders and down the front, big square collars and small flat ones, fur backs, fur fronts, fur pockets, lapels, hats and muffs contribute their quota of drama. Persian lamb is still in the forefront, silver foxes give luxury, beaver has staged a comeback and mink and sable, seal and squirrel are all used as trims.

Sports and traveling coats are much simpler. They are made of diagonals, tweeds and fleeces cut on swaggy bulky lines, and furred, generally only on the collar, with nutria, leopard, panther or lynx.

WHEN WINTER COMES

The youthful coat above is of diagonal wool in a new shade—grayed forland blue. It is cut on slender lines and trimmed with a big beaver collar. Mink muffs of same fur, toggle is Iceland blue stitched wool. It is designed by Del Monte Hickey.

SLENDER LINES FOR FALL

The coat above bears the 1936-37 style stamp in the princess silhouette which molds the bust and fits to a trim little waist. It is made of hairy black wool and finished with a small round collar and sleeve bandings of black Persian lamb. All accessories are black. It is designed by Del Monte Hickey.

CARE USED IN PLANTING FALL BULBS WILL BE REWARDED

By The Master Gardener

Planting of hardy bulbs is in full swing this month. And no wonder we have such an enthusiastic army of planters! For given even minimum care, flowers are almost certain to appear in spring.

But as in every other phase of gardening, extra care is rewarded with more blooms, and better quality of blooms; plants that are more resistant to disease; and strong healthy bulbs whose bloom does not deteriorate so rapidly from year to year, even though the bulbs are not lifted and replanted frequently.

Remember in planting to provide for adequate drainage; to prepare the soil thoroughly; and to incorporate a good supply of a complete balanced plant food. Ample available nourishment will help develop a strong root system in the fall; and there will be sufficient plant food in the soil when growth starts in the spring to assure the finest of blooms, with strong stems of good length. Bulbs start to grow so early that it is impossible to work the soil so as to apply plant food in the spring when growth starts.

It is best to mulch fall planted bulbs lightly, as soon as the ground is frozen, to prevent alternate freezing and thawing, which heaves the bulbs and injures the root system. Do not apply the mulch until after the ground has frozen, however, or mice and other rodents are apt to injure the bulbs.

Window Shelves

Shelves in many old houses were placed at the tops of the windows. These took the place of a curtain valance and made space for the placing of interesting china, glass, pewter, copper or other collections.

Plenty of Hops

San Francisco—In the event of war, the United States has nothing to fear in the curtailment of its beer supply. Although hops for that purpose are still imported from Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Yugoslavia, the California Farm Bureau federation has notified all brewers in the United States they can supply all the hops needed and then some.

"Bruin" Means "Brown"

The name "bruin" comes from the Danish language, and means "brown." It was first used in Europe, because of the big brown bears found there, according to an authority. The brown bears of Europe are of very good size, the full-grown males being about six feet long.

Plaid Dress And Three-Color Suit Lend Easy Charm To Sports Wear

FOR SUMMER ONLOOKERS

Casual chic distinguishes this fall's sports costumes. The plaid frock at left is of brown, beige and green wool and is finished with a green side-fastening running down the front. A brown velvet tie and leather belt go with it. The suit at right combines three colors and parts—a brown skirt, blue green jacket and brown vest—all of diagonal wool.

Flowers And Container Form Perfect Harmony

Although the plan of this arrangement is furnished by the Lunaria or Money Plant, it is the final flower-arrangement which makes up the plan.

Difficulty in making attractive floral arrangements may sometimes be due to failure to use a container that harmonizes with the flowers or materials. A vase need not be expensive or elaborate, in fact those of simple line and color without any decoration are likely to be best.

The simple white vase in the illustration with its graceful curves is most appropriate for the long, angular but graceful branches of winter-sweet berries that carry out the lines of the vase. The bright orange pods of the Chinese lanterns are placed in the center and low where they give stability instead of making the arrangement appear top heavy. The miniature cut-tails add a pleasing note of brown in the bright mass or orange in the white vase.

Other dried materials that are available in the florist shops now include straw flowers in a great variety of attractive hues, yellow, maroon, bronze, white and russet. Not only do they bring autumn coloring into our homes now but they will be just as lovely all winter.

Lunaria, or so-called money plant, with its flat discs of glistering silver is another beautiful dried material for bouquet use. It is lovely by itself in a white vase or mixed with autumn-colored materials to emphasize their brightness.

Society Gets The Bird —It's New Decoration

BIRDS OF A FEATHER

... Will be flocking in smart homes this season. Pairs of marble, wood, glass and pottery will replace other ornaments on mantel and table while even the wallpaper designs (bottom) have taken up the idea.

By MARY DAVES GILLIES

Prepared By McCall's Magazine For The Freeman

Many birds will be wintering in the north this year. And east, south and west, too.

The smart home will have at least one bird, but the smarter one will have a pair. They won't sing, but then they won't need birdseed, or any care. They will be funny or exotic, as you please, but most of them will be useful to have around.

Marble, wood, glass and pottery—these will be the most popular birds this season. They have caused a new decorative rage.

Blonde wooden birds will take the place of pairs of candlesticks on mantels. Ducks and geese in wood or ceramic will wing their way across walls of dens. A braving man will have a complete duck decoy set, from book ends to lamp bases and paper weights.

The new birds make charming centerpieces on tables, formal and informal. For elaborate settings, there are beautiful crystal birds. For flower centerpieces there are groupings of small birds around shallow bowls. And there are flower holders in the form of fat doves with open beaks, large crystal ducks and colorful fighting cocks.

An attractive buffet table seen recently had a red tablecloth with all white accessories. At each end were two large white pottery cocks, each about a foot high, with a vivid arrangement of red carmine standing out like tall feathers.

Smaller pairs of flower holders for luncheon or dressing table are Junco Wren and Cock Robin—poised just right for small flowers such as Hellebore, the valley, violets and hyacinths. And the new bird lovers will not be happy without bird mounds on wall paper, cushions and crochets.

Director Howard Hoffman of the Music Department then outlined the principals of the association. The entertainment of the evening was announced by Clifford Van Valkenburgh. The blister rust that destroys white pine is a deceptive disease. It is highly infectious and one of the peculiar group of plant diseases that requires two different host plants to complete their life cycle. It cannot spread directly from one white pine to another. There is always an intermediate stage of the disease that much occur on the leaves of currants and gooseberries, collectively called Ribes.

Seventy-five dollars a month for everyone. Such is the dream of Preacher William Aberhart, who as premier of Alberta, Canada, has attained great power and today is the most talked of man in the whole dominion. Will he succeed?

The Associated Press sent De Witt MacKenzie, famous correspondent on foreign affairs, to Canada to study this unusual scheme and the man behind it. The first of his interesting series of four stories, answering the questions you have asked about the experiment, will appear in The Freeman Monday and the others on successive days.

At The Theatres

Today.

Broadway: "The Gorgeous Hussy." History and romance get together in the highly publicized drama at the Broadway Theatre with Joan Crawford as Peggy O'Neill, the stormy little lady who threw official Washington into an uproar during the administration of Andrew Jackson. Playing with politics and love, she wrote a blazing chapter in American history and her exploits are transcribed to the screen with skill and vivid reality. Miss Crawford is surrounded by an exceptional cast of players and she outshines them all in a role greatly suited to her talents. Robert Taylor, Franchot Tone and Lionel Barrymore are among the big names who appear in the production. The screen version was adapted from a novel by Samuel Hopkins Adams.

Kingston: "Swing Time." The Astaire-Rogers duo return to Kingston for a short stay at the uptown theatre in their latest musical endeavor, as good or better than their previous successes. It's the story of a dance "hooper" who becomes engaged to a girl only to realize he loves another and the subsequent complications are both exciting and laughable. The plot is unimportant however and merely forms the background for Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers to perform their feats of dance magic and the settings, songs and music are excellent. Comedy is furnished by the incomparable Victor Moore and Helen Broderick with Eric Blore and Georges Metaxa in featured roles. Here is an evening of grand entertainment.

Orpheum: "Hands Across the Table." A girl out to marry money and a boy out to marry money get together in the first offering at the Orpheum and finally marry each other, proving something or other by so doing. The show is of light comedy variety and is a deftly handled bit of screen amusement because of the fine work of Fred MacMurray and Carole Lombard. The laughs are many in this one and the settings, situations and direction leave little to be desired. Ralph Bellamy and Astrid Allen are featured. "O'Mally of the Mounted" was written by William S. Hart and tells of a "Mountie" who joins up with a bandit gang in order to trap them. Irene Ware and Stanley Fields are in the cast with the reliable George O'Brien starred.

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same.

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Educating Father" and "Cowboy and the Kid." The present day pastime of keeping parents in their place is humorously worked out in the main attraction at the Orpheum, the story of a father and his family problems. He wants his son to carry on his drug store business but the boy wants to be an aviator. How both are reconciled is fairly entertaining drama with Jed Prouty, Shirley Deane, Dixie Dunbar, Kenneth Howell, Spring Byington and George Ernest in the large cast.

Not Enough Passing, Says Bell, Eastern Football Is Behind Times

New York, Oct. 10 (AP)—Matty Bell, football coach at Southern Methodist University, put the blast on eastern football today before turning his Mustangs loose against Fordham at the Polo Grounds.

"It's five years behind time," he declared, "and they're no better in the west or midwest. If I tried to play football in the Southwest Conference the way you do, they'd boo me out of the league."

Matty's criticism is that everybody here runs with the ball. He has no objection to an occasional run, but it's long enough. But generally it's a waste of time. He thinks they should pass.

"To hear people talk around here, you'd think they played open football. Why last week they had a game down in our league and two teams tossed 71 passes. Now that's passing. This year I reckon we'll see the ball more times than we see with it."

Bell, whose last team lost to Stanford 7-0 in the Rose Bowl game last year, said his south-west team will demand this new "gridiron baseball."

"Coaches can't get away with straight football even in the high schools. They do just as much passing as we do. I think that's why our football is superior. We have the best coached high school football in the country."

What annoys Bell is that he says has never had what he calls a "passer."

"Bob Finley, my fullback, is all right, and I've got a couple of ends, a guy named Myers who can pass a little, but I've never seen a great passer like 'Slingshot' Baugh of Texas Christian."

Bell. "He's about the best way he describes it, the kids in his part of the country put it on a pulley, roll them down the line and throw footballs through the hoop at 50 paces. Some of them come out of that, Mat."

You know, they play such open ball down there that sometimes a four-man line. The rest of the line in the backfield somewhere 'keep away.' Of course, we have a running game in case we do that to us.

For all that, Bell claims he's conservatively. "I think I'm behind the times," he grinned. "I don't let my kids or tackle pass very much."

High School Played At Home Today

Kingston High School football was scheduled to play its first game today within the canvas walls at the Kingston Fairgrounds against Poughkeepsie, all-time foe of the Maroon's strongest Kingston's smooth-working and crushing backfield were on as factors giving the gridiron of Coach G. Warren Kline the over Poughkeepsie. The home county team entered the hardbit by injuries, an advantage for the locals.

Plans Near Finish For City Fight Card, Seats Sell Rapidly

With the sale of reserved seats progressing at a rate that is expected to bring out a new high figure for a boxing show attendance, plans are nearing completion for the program of bouts to be run for the benefit of the Mayor's Industrial Committee at the Municipal Auditorium, Friday evening, October 16.

Reserved seat ticket salesmen, all members of the Industrial Committee—E. Frank Flanagan, Wall street clothier; Matthew H. Herzog, hardware dealer; S. Gold of Gold's Reliable Shop, and Harry B. Walker, central Broadway drugist—report encouraging ticket sales.

As the ticket sales go on, Superintendent David Conway of the Board of Public Works, is repairing the American Legion boxing ring for the big show, and Dick Williams is arranging the seating chart for the auditorium fight set-up.

The card of bouts, arranged by Ben M. Becker of Albany, a director of the A. A. U., contains the names of the most outstanding amateurs from New York city and the Adirondack division of the association.

Louis Knocks Out Brescia in Third

New York, Oct. 10.—Joe Louis today motioned for his pin boy, Promoter Mike Jacobs, to set 'em up in another alley.

The Brown Bomber scored the third straight "strike" of his comeback campaign at the inaugural show of Promoter Jacobs' Hippodrome indoor season last night by knocking out Jorge Brescia, giant Argentine, in the third round of a scheduled 10 rounder.

Brescia rolled over on his blood-spattered face, a badly beaten victim after two minutes and 12 seconds of both tame and furious fighting.

Louis was far too ring-wise for the young "Bull of the Pampas" and he hit too hard. Brescia, sent in to fight the ring's most fearsome puncher after only eight unimportant battles, impressed the crowd of 6,200 paid spectators with his gameness under fire, but that was all.

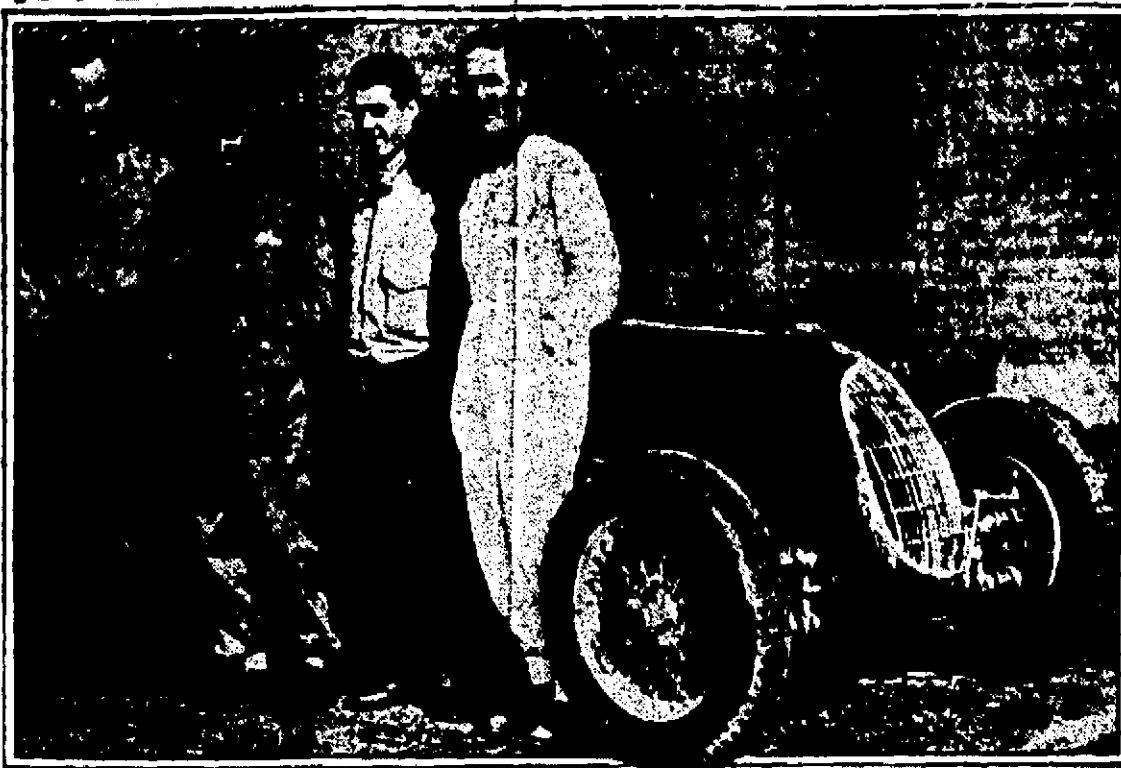

Before Louis stretched him on the canvas, the Argentine, his legs wobbling under the terrific fire, gamely mixed with Louis. The flurry lasted 20 seconds and brought the crowd to its feet but the crafty Detroit-negro sent his opponent reeling with a terrific right and knocked him down and out with a well-timed left hook. He was out for a full minute.

Only $24,820.32 was paid in the gate last night.

Mechanics Dart Games Enjoyed

Friday evening a series of three dart ball games was played between the Junior Order of American Mechanics and Bethany Chapel teams at Mechanics' Hall, 14 Henry street, and a fine social time was enjoyed, featured by a luncheon with Byron Short as the chef. The shuffle board was in use all during the game period. Next Friday a shuffle tournament will start.

Satans of Speed Ready for Columbus Day Race

NEW YORK.—A quartette of fiery Italians who have spun to glory over the speed paths of Europe will present their daring to America for the first time here on Columbus Day.

They are members of the Ferrari team, first foreign competition to challenge in the inaugural 400-mile International road race over the new Roosevelt Raceway on Long Island, Monday, October 12, for the George Vanderbilt Cup and some $85,000 in cash awards.

The team is headed by the famous Tazio Nuvolari of whom the Italians say: "He is a contract with the Devil." Other members of his satanic majesty's staff are Count Antonio Brivio; Dr. Giuseppe Farina and Carlo Pintacuda, reserve driver.

So miraculous have been some of Nuvolari's escapes on the roaring road that his fans have endowed him with almost supernatural powers. Practicing for the Tripoli Grand Prix in Africa this year, his car burst a front tire while roaring along at 160 miles an hour. Doctors predicted that he was due for a couple of weeks in the hospital, but he selected another car and drove in the race the following day.

European observers say that veteran American drivers will be hard pressed to ward off this portion of the foreign invasion which includes representatives from three other countries.

New Rule to Speed Up Pro Basketball

In an effort to still further speed up their games the American Professional Basketball League managers by a mail vote have decided to adopt the rule tried out successfully last year by the colleges and amateur clubs of the country as to the placing of the ball in play following a foul try for goal.

Hereafter in the event of the scoring of the foultry, the ball will be awarded to the opposing team out of bounds immediately behind the basket during each of the three periods of play, with the exception of the final five minutes, when it will be returned to center. If a score is made, this latter procedure will also govern any extra period or periods in the event of a tie game.

With expectations for one of the best seasons in professional basketball the American League will hold its organization meeting at Atlantic City next Wednesday, at which time several important changes in the roster of the clubs will receive consideration.

45 Starters Ready For Auto Race

Westbury, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP)—With two days of qualifying trials to be run off, 44 knights of the roaring road, who have added a thorough knowledge of twists and turns to their ability to send a car down the straightaway at top speed, have earned starting places in the 300-mile Vanderbilt cup speed test on the new Roosevelt raceway Monday.

The twisting four-mile strip of asphalt has lived up to expectations in that no driver has come close to the 100-mile an hour speeds common on other tracks. The best speeds were recorded Wednesday by Tazio Nuvolari of Italy, who is considered the man to beat in the race. He did one lap at 70.1 miles per hour and averaged 69.922 for the 30-mile qualifying test.

Fifteen drivers qualified Tuesday and Wednesday and nine more yesterday. Some 45 in all are expected to be on the starting line when the field is sent away about 11 a. m. (E.S.T.) Monday.

With $60,000 in prize money at stake and the dangerous "pretzel" course, combining the features of road and speedway racing, receiving its first test it is expected about 60,000 spectators will fill the big stands, which have been arranged so that everyone can see the entire course.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Wesley Ramey, 124½, Grand Rapids, defeated Frankie Wallace, 137, Cleveland, (10).

Louisville, Ky.—Jimmy Buckler, 124½, Louisville, and Lloyd Pine, 124½, Akron, O., drew, (10).

A touchdown by Jimmy Cullum gave the Yellow Jacket football of Harris Brown a 6-0 victory over the Knickerbockers Friday night in Hawkins Stadium, Albany, where more than 100 Kingston grid fans gathered to see the Waags avenge their defeat of last year.

Under the arc lights in the Bee's first night game, Cullum bucked the line for the Kingston score, going through a hole in left tackle position to plant the oval on the enemy's goal. His dash was witnessed by approximately 500 spectators, including the Kingston delegation, among which was Harris Brown, the backer of the Jackets.

Kingston's score came in the second period. The Knicks bungled their attempt to run back an ordinary punt. Steve Scarkill, right half, started to run with it and as he was tackled flipped the ball to Dan Finch, who fumbled. Cullum recovered for the Jackets on the Knick's 16-yard line.

From this point the Yellow Jackets scored, after losing several yards on an off-tackle play and then moving right up to within three yards of the Knickerbocker goal line on a pass from Cullum to Ed Minasian, quarterback. Cullum gained less than a yard on a plunge through center. Minasian lost some ground on the next play, and then Cullum darted through a hole in the Knick left tackle for the touchdown. An attempted placement kick for the extra point failed.

A short time after that another Kingston drive was halted by the half time whistle. Fitzgerald of the Yellow Jackets had recovered the ball as Scarkill gathered in and then let fall a Kingston punt, to give his team possession on the Knickerbocker 40-yard line. Two line plays went for no gain, a net pass from Cullum to Left Halfback brought three yards, and a forward pass from Cullum to Left Halfback Ed Burgevin brought eight yards and a first down. Cullum gained five yards on a line play, but at this point the stopwatch halted the new Yellow Jacket offensive 14 yards from the Knick goal line.

It was not until the final period that the Knicks threatened to get even. They had taken possession of the ball on the Kingston 45-yard line, and in a series of rebounding blows at the Yellow Jacket line had gained two first downs and placed the ball five yards from the goal line. Here, however, the Yellow Jackets tightened their defense, and Knickerbockers were forced into the air in their attempt to win the game. Dan Finch faded back and tossed a long, high pass to Frank Dockendorf, sub right end, who was waiting behind the goal line. But the ball struck an upright of the goal posts and bounded back into the playing field. Another attempted pass, thrown by Chick Evans, sub quarterback, was grounded and the threat was ended.

In the course of the game the Knicks made seven first downs to the Yellow Jackets' five. Kingston completed three passes for a total gain of 33 yards, had one pass grounded, and had one intercepted. Albany completed two passes for 35 yards, had five grounded and had four intercepted.

Sing Sing Sunday For Yellow Jackets

Fresh from their 6-0 victory at Albany over the Knickerbockers, Friday night, the Kingston Yellow Jackets will try for another win Sunday at the expense of the Sing Sing Black Sheep.

The game, of course, will be played behind the big stone walls of the state bastille on the Hudson, and Waag rooters desiring to make the trip will find a bus leaving Brown's Servicenter, Broadway and Pine Grove avenue, at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Game time is 2 o'clock. The gates open at 1.

Sing Sing always has a good team, and Coach Jerry Dunn anticipates a tough struggle for his Redskins. "The Kingston boys are in good shape, though," said Dunn. "and rarin' to go. I hope we can take over the Black Sheep."

A victory over the team of Ward Lewis E. Lawen would mean a lot to the Jackets, who to date have two to their credit. They defeated Newburgh, 2-0, and Albany 6-0.

Al Flanagan, booking manager, commenting on last night's game at the capital said the Jackets looked very good. The ex-backfielder has great hopes of seeing the Waags come out of Sing Sing tilt with another scalp.

'Poosh-'Em-Up' Tony Comes Through In The Clutch

By CHARLES GRUMICH

New York, Oct. 10.—Two great salutes died off the rusty bat of Anthony Michael Lazzari in the baseball season just closed.

The first, coming late in May when he and his Yankee mates were making an inconspicuous start pennantward in the American League, announced old "Poosh-'em-up" was all on the basepaths and . . .

The second showed the Yankees and the baseball world the Giants could be blown apart in the World Series with old Tony as a pacesetter in years after his first appearance in the post-season classic as a rookie from the West.

Many figured before the 1935 campaign got under way that Tony might not last out the season.

Lazzari's World Series Record:

Year	G.	A.B.	R.	H.	E.	B.A.V.
1935	7	26	2	5	1	132
1937	4	15	1	4	0	267
1938	4	12	2	2	0	259
1932	4	17	4	2	0	234
1934	6	20	4	5	0	250
Total	25	90	13	23	1	259

That the props which had stood up since his debut with Salt Lake City back in '25 were ready for a rest.

The silent, silent man who walks alone, not even smiling with his mates as they gabble during batting practice but who has a terrible in his eye and a kindly manner nevertheless, proved them all wrong.

The record books say Tony will be 33 on next December 4, he admits to 29 summers and you can guess with the next one as to exactly how old he is.

But he's already starting on playing record book regularly for the New York Yankees next year and there is no doubting that the moment of the time who followed the McCartyman through the World Series to the championship with old Tony as a spark of Maroon's New.

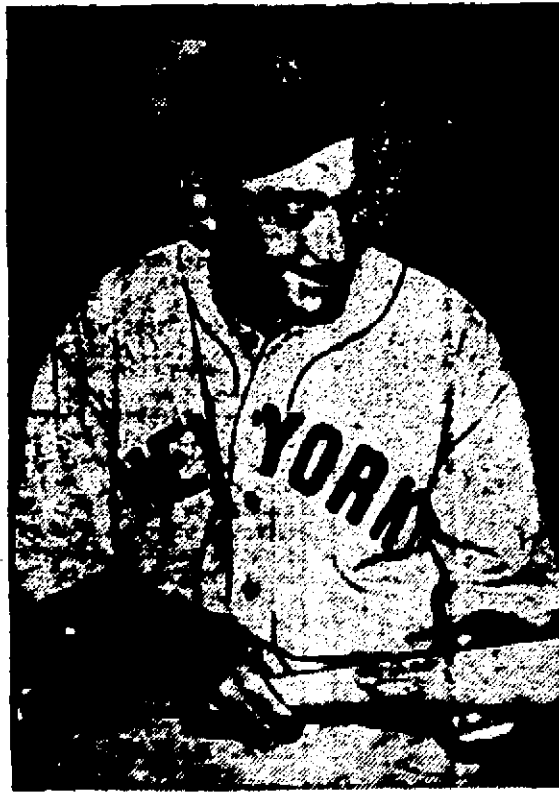

TONY LAZZARI: Old "Poosh-'em-up" played errorless ball at second base for the Yankees in the 1935 World Series. . . .

Four Home Run Records.

Tony's first salvo heard 'round the baseball world in 1934 came just a little more than a month after the campaign began.

Against the Athletics in a 25-3 game, he clinched a week-end of unprecedented slugging by belting three homers, two of them in succession when the bases were loaded, and a triple which fell just short of a round-tripper with two outs.

This prodigious batting spree gave him the American League record of

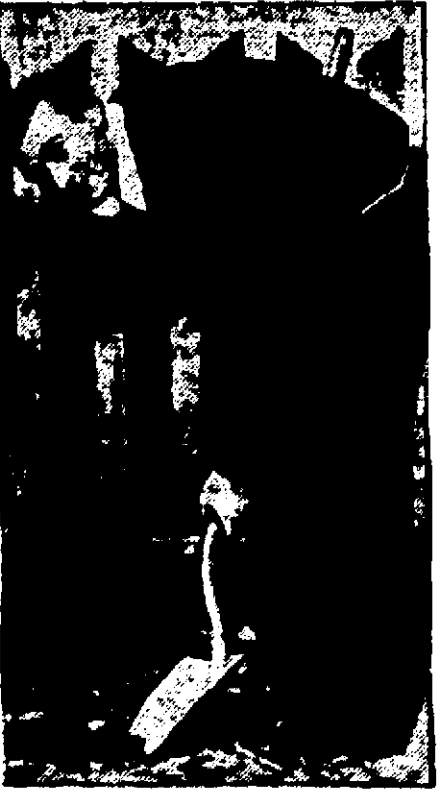

THE BAT that hammered out a homer with the bases loaded, sparked the Yankees to their World Series triumph over the Giants and drove home 7 runs in the 6 games. . . .

11 runs batted in in one game.

Major League marks established by Lazzari in that one week-end included:

Most homers with bases filled, single game, 3.
Most homers in four consecutive games, 2.
Most homers in three consecutive games, 4.
Most homers in two consecutive games, 3.

The authors of the records he shattered included such luminaries of ancient and modern times as Babe Ruth, Ken Williams, Chuck Klein, FAMILY MAN of Millbrook, Calif., the state where he got his start, he advised his young Yankee mates to "back away" their Series shares. . . .

Jim Bottomley, Bill Terry, Ty Cobb and Pop Alton.

Although far behind the leaders in the 1935 season's hitting averages, with a mark of .281, Lazzari ranked third in runs batted in by the Yankees in the early drive into the World Series. He brought home 163 tallies.

He looked tied—At The Start.

Then the World Series. . . . Old Tony looked better belted at the plate with his bat held on a Jimmy shoulder. . . .

But he resumed his record-

THE OLD-TIMER, who played in two World Series, beginning in 1926, is getting ready to go on forever—the Yankees are willing.

Yankers found the power that decisively crushed the Giants in the interborough series, and Tony was the hero of the batting rampages.

Although he was far behind the batting leaders, as usual, with a .250 average, Tony was tops in the clutch. Altogether, he belted in seven runs to the Los Goshing for the realm high and he played errorless ball through the six games, handling 17 assists and 12 putouts.

A New York writer says Tony plays record book by memory.

Maybe he was the hero of the 1926 World Series.

That was the game in which the

'It'? Just Another Word To Elinor Glyn Today

"It"—that rare gift of the Gods! To have "It," the fortunate possessor must have that strange magnetism which attracts both sexes. He or she must be entirely unconscious and full of self-confidence, indifferent to the effect he or she is producing, and uninfluenced by others. There must be physical attraction, but beauty is unnecessary. Conceit or self-consciousness destroys "It" immediately. In the animal world "It" demonstrates in tigers and cats—both animals being fascinating and mysterious, and quite unobtainable."

—Elinor Glyn in "It"

By ROBERT LETTS
London (AP)—Elinor Glyn, who made "It" a household word, isn't interested in it any more.

She has lost touch with modern youth, she says—and after eight years' absence from America, she has almost forgotten what "It" is all about. The "flaming youth" she made famous seemingly is giving way to sensibility, she said, but "It" will take time.

Sitting on a 200-year-old chair in her ornate gold-decorated living room where hangs a lighted oil painting of herself done 24 years ago, the onetime adviser of the love-lorn said: "I'm afraid I don't know much about the modern woman. I've been away from America too long."

No Comparison
"Of course, we have modern women in England and on the continent, but one can't compare them with those in the days of Clara Bow—dear little Clara—because Europe is behind America in such things."

"Dear little Clara! She visited me four years ago. I could have made her the greatest emotional actress on the screen. All she needed was good advice. I'm glad she's happily married now."

One of her two large Persian cats, "Tiger," jumped on her lap. "Tiger, it isn't polite to do such things. Please get down at once." And aside, while the cat prepared to make itself comfortable, "He understands every word I say."

"Tiger, please get down at once." She lifted the cat, placed it on the floor and resumed her discussion. "Women 'Too Individualistic'—From the European and English points of view, it strikes me women are a bit eccentric from attempting to emphasize their individualities too much. Gradually, they are realizing this and are finding their balance."

once street and Mrs. Arthur Quimby of Green street spent Monday in Poughkeepsie as the guests of Mrs. Quimby's daughter, Mrs. Edwin Quimby.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Clark and son, Frederick, Jr., of Concord, Mass., spent last week-end with Mr. Clark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Clark, of Manor avenue.

but it will take some time yet. "Beauty, too, is finding a balance, through all classes. "If I had my way, there would be a statue unveiled in every hamlet and city to the originator of the 'five and ten' stores because he brought cosmetics, stockings and even clothes within the price range of the working girl. "I wish I knew something more about the modern woman, but I'm afraid I don't." And as she strolled toward the door, she stopped to gaze at her painting, then said "goodbye" and returned to her writings about "habits of the 12th, 13th and 14th centuries."

Home Institute THE ART OF SMALL TALK

It Is Also an Art to Listen!

Talk—light and airy as the frosting on a cake—that's the kind of party talk that makes you popular. You may like to read the Einstein theory. But a party's no place to air your understanding. Now's the time to talk airily, wittily about the first amusing thing that comes into your mind. But you are not a wit! You wouldn't know how to be airy if you wanted to! Then make up your conversation before you go to the party as carefully as you make up your face. Think up amusing snatches of conversation you have heard. "You know that delicious cake that Henry thinks I make? The baker's gone out of business and I can't get it any more!" Describe the funny people you've seen. It helps to read a few jokes before you go to the party. Armed with these opening wedges, you'll soon have your partner "talking on a cake—that's the kind of party talk that makes you popular."

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Barlet Countenance: A gentleman whose acquaintance is made and who prides himself on never forgetting a face, stood at the entrance while his wife went into a baby establishment to make some purchases for the family dinner. After waiting what seemed to him an eternity, he followed her inside. The store was doing an excellent business and the entire counter was lined with women each intent on getting service from the harassed sales force. Surveying the line as he picked out his wife, the gentleman stole softly up behind her and with a playful spunk, whispered, "Dear, spend all your money, dear. Whereupon the lady turned and revealed a face he had never seen before. And in his hasty retreat whom should he meet only a few feet away but a lady who glared at him with all storm signals set. That was his wife of course, and she, having witnessed the whole proceeding, is still mentioning it as the most embarrassing occasion.

Signs of the Times: Quite often in trips here and there under ground, I've noticed persons conversing with their fingers. It struck me that New York has an extraordinarily large population of mutes, by means of pencil and paper I took the matter up with a speechless friend. He informed me that many of those whom I saw communicating by signals in the subway were not using the official sign language but were merely saving wear and tear on their voices by using their hands and thus making themselves understood over the rattle and roar of the trains. Also some who use the real language have all their faculties and use the signs of mutes to communicate confidential matters when among others. Some beggars who pretend to be deaf and dumb lead the signs as a matter of self-protection. Alert cops are quick to detect fake signs and the fakers go to the workhouse.

Changing of the Guard: The other afternoon in the lobby of the Waldorf-Astoria, two full platoons of page and bell boys appeared from nowhere, marched along with the precision of Roxy ushers, wheeled saluted, fell out and took up post in various nooks and corners. In inquiry developed the fact that the ceremony is a regular thing occurring daily at 7 a. m. and 3 p. m. and attracting many states from guests and others. The march of the trimly uniformed lads begins at the Lexington avenue foyer and ends at the Park avenue entrance of the hotel. It is all over in a few minutes but attracts a lot of attention nevertheless.

Modern Maze: The new Triborough bridge is a great time-saver for motorists who go to Long Island from the Bronx or the other way around, as it makes it unnecessary for them to get into downtown traffic and cuts the mileage no little. But a young man from Detroit, who desired to travel from Washington Heights to Jones Beach, discovered that even a $64,000,000 shortcut may prove otherwise. After paying 25 cents toll, he drove gayly onto the bridge and finally reached the end. A little farther on, he asked how to get to the beach and was told to take the Triborough bridge. Not until then did he discover that he was back to where he started from. The reason was that he had made a wrong turn and hadn't noted a sign. But no matter the reason, the bridge receipts were increased 25 cents since, in order to get back on, he had to part with another quarter.

City Scene: The decrepit horse of a junkman collapsing just after it has been speeded across lower Broadway to beat the change of a light. . . . The usual crowd collecting. . . . An officious policeman taking charge, forcing back the spectators and making notes. . . . The junkman answering in a choking voice. . . . "It wasn't much of a horse. . . . But it brought him a living. . . . At home were a wife and six kids. . . . and he couldn't figure out the future."

Subway Eavesdropper: "Her husband is a good provider. . . . he provides her with a swell alibi whenever he stays out late a night."

Hunter for Zoo Finds

Capturing Easiest Task

St. Louis—Capturing a wild animal is not so difficult, according to Christopher Schultz, veteran East African hunter, who delivered a con- sideration of animals to the local zoo.

But animals are hard to keep after delivery after capture, Schultz says in support of this he pointed out that a giraffe, delivered here, was separated from a herd and kept from a horse in about five minutes.

After the capture, however, it is necessary to move the animal 30 miles overland from East Africa place it on a ship for a voyage of thirty-seven days to Boston, after which the beast still faced a fifteen day quarantine.

And despite the long journey in good health or they will not be accepted.

Novelty disease of segment, and recently imported about 20 years ago, cost the industry approximately $100,000,000 before it was brought under control by substitution of distinct varieties introduced or bred by the Bureau of Plant Industry.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—A late rally in today's Stock Market wiped out many earlier profit taking reactions and pushed a wide assortment of issues into new high ground for the past 5 years with gains of 2 points or more.

It was the sixth consecutive session in which the list marked up another peak for the recovery. Transports were around 900,000 shares.

There was plenty of stimulating economic news, with dividend and earnings forecasts providing substantial support for selected equities.

Further confusion in foreign affairs, including the Russian controversy with the powers over intervention in the Spanish civil war and political disturbances in France, tended to keep some traders on the fence. The forthcoming Monday holiday also was a restraining influence.

Labor Awaits Peace Proposal

Washington, Oct. 10 (AP).—Partisans on both sides of organized labor's bitter "family quarrel" heard with interest today that there may be a quick decision on the first formal peace proposal to be presented to the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

With President William Green of the Federation en route to New York City to attend a banquet, the labor front settled down to watchful waiting over the week-end, pending renewal of the council's deliberations Monday.

The peace suggestion was outlined in a resolution of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers, in which a strong faction favoring the committee for industrial organization exists.

Ekins May Leave Manila on Sunday

Manila, P. I., Oct. 10 (AP).—H. R. Ekins, one of three newspaper reporters racing around the world by established means of transportation, arrived in Manila at 5:55 p. m. today for ahead of his two competitors.

Bad weather which accompanied him all the way on his flight from Borneo may help speed him back to New York. The possibility arose that he would board the Philippine clipper at dawn Sunday for the transpacific flight instead of waiting for the China clipper's flight next week as he planned.

The Philippine clipper has been delayed here two days by a typhoon. Ekins was about 5,000 miles ahead of Dorothy Kilgallen and Leo Kleran, who left New York with him on the dirigible Hindenburg to start the world-girdling race.

Roosevelt Goes Into Nebraska

Omaha, Oct. 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt hit the campaign trail to Nebraska today after a night speech at St. Paul in which he asserted figures on "growing consumption and better farm prices" proved the New Deal reciprocal tariff program was benefiting American industry and agriculture.

The Presidential Special laid a southern course through Iowa en route to Lincoln, Neb., for a two-hour afternoon stop before proceeding to Omaha where the Chief Executive will deliver an address on agriculture at 8 p. m. Central time, tonight at the ball of Ak-sar-ben, a large civic organization.

It will be the first nationally broadcast speech of his 5,000-mile western stumping tour.

Bjorkvall Tells Of Motor Trouble

Valencia, Irish Free State, Oct. 10 (AP).—Happy but without one word for the baroness he left behind, Kurt Bjorkvall, Swedish trans-Atlantic flier whose solo journey from New York ended in the sea, reached here today aboard the French trawler which rescued him.

Bjorkvall, who said his plane developed engine trouble early on Wednesday morning, the day he was forced to descend in the ocean, declared he was willing to "try it again."

The engine trouble, he related, cut the speed of his plane from 220 to 120 miles per hour.

Soon the oil cooling system broke down, he added, and the cabin of the plane was filled with heavy fumes.

With the engine "red hot," Bjorkvall finished the trawler imbrin, 150 miles from the Irish coast. It was the first ship he had seen.

Clipper Off For Wake Island

By CHARLES E. HARNER

Midway Island, Oct. 10 (AP).—The "previews" passengers flying the Pacific to Manila boarded the China Clipper today for Wake Island, sent stop in a voyage that has brought it 6,470 miles from New York in 27 hours.

Approximately 48 hours of flight, two hours after departure, today becomes tomorrow because of the international latitudes. Steamship passengers long have experienced this confusion, but we are the first passengers to get time cheat us by air. We will get the day back, however, when we return from Manila, toward which we fly 1,165 miles to Wake Island today.

Formulae and Processes to Restore Paintings by Sir Hamilton Longhorne Willed to Zaven Melik of Kingston

According to correspondence re-human, are subject to various ailments such as exposure to heat, cold, sun, moisture, dryness, injuries sustained in accident, cuts, abrasions, punctures and contusions. It is gratifying to have in Kingston the advantage of such fine restoration formulae and process as these now possessed by Zaven Melik.

So many valuable Colonial paintings now abandoned and forgotten in the attics of Ulster county can be refreshed, rebuilt, treated, reinforced and otherwise brought to their original worth, to serve not merely as "antiques" but as paintings bearing the standard of actual value for their owner and the history of Colonial culture. There are many Colonial and other paintings now being restored at the Melik Studio, some of which have been left half finished to show the contrast between their condition before and after the process of restoration were applied.

Those interested in seeing the processes of restoration may secure appointments at the Melik Academy in this city.

It is now recognized everywhere that the only difference between mental patients and those of us outside these institutions is that they have difficulty getting along with other people or can't face their problems well enough to do themselves justice quite as well as we can.

Two Urns Sought In Weymouth Case

Weymouth, Mass., Oct. 10 (AP).—The disappearance of two large concrete urns from the home of Mrs. Gracye Asquith, 40-year-old widow identified as the Boston harbor sack victim, puzzled investigators today.

At the same time police advanced the theory that John A. Lyons, 38-year-old disabled World War veteran and friend of the photographer's model, might have been slain, also. Lyons was missing from his Boston residence. His clothes were intact and a government pension check was awaiting him.

Police continued to question Oscar Battalini, 50, a chef and odd job man, who said he last saw Mrs. Asquith September 19. A third man—an engineer aboard a fishing boat—was sought.

Landon Plates Now Available

Supply of 4,000 Landon Reflector Plates Soon Exhausted—New Supply Now on Hand for Distribution in County.

If the popularity of Governor Alf M. Landon can be judged by the large number of "Landon" plates which appear on Ulster county cars, the Kansas candidate will poll one of the largest votes which has ever been given a Republican candidate in Ulster county. And the fact that many more cars have not been carrying Landon signs is apparently because of the inability to secure them.

Since Governor Landon was nominated as the Republican candidate for President at the local Republican Central Committee held given out and distributed 4,000 of the Landon reflector plates for attachment to cars. This supply was soon exhausted and for a time there have been no more available.

Friday an additional supply of 500 of the Landon reflectors were received and are now ready for distribution at the office of County Chairman Philip Elting, 280 Wall street. These plates may be had while the limited supply lasts.

Landon Denounces The New Deal

overhauling and equalizing our tax system, he has made no effort to practice administrative economy and he has paid scant attention to long-range planning on such important questions as unemployment, its relief, its administration and in looking toward a sound program of public construction.

"It is my belief," he said, "that the people of the state of New York no longer wish in control of the affairs of the state a robot governor, one who responds to the political impulses of the New Dealers in Washington as transmitted to the state of New York over long distance telephone wires."

Then, pounding his fists for emphasis Bleakley turned to social security and said:

"Here again the governor took on the mantle of rabble-rouser in an effort to mislead the people into believing Republican legislators were against social security. No one is against social security. Opposition to social security comes, however, in the manner of its administration, in the method of enabling taxation and in many instances, in duplication of effort.

Bleakley's assertions were made from the rostrum of the Academy Music Hall in Brooklyn where approximately 3,000 persons gathered. Republican leaders said, to hear the Knox assault both "the big New Deal at Washington and the smaller New Deal at Albany."

"It is impossible to separate the national and state campaigns in this present election contest because my opponent, by reason of his personal surrender to the New Deal, has permitted the state of New York to become a laboratory for New Deal legislative and administrative experimentation," Bleakley told the audience.

"Furthermore, my opponent has long since cloaked himself in the speeding mantle of Mr. Roosevelt, and has virtually outdone his predecessor in the reckless spending of taxpayers' money and in floating bond issues."

Periods of good growing weather have alternated with poor ones through the last 650 years, but there has been no general trend toward either a drier or a wetter climate in the Pacific Northwest, according to the records made by tree rings in the forests of northern California and eastern Oregon.

District Attorney Murray's Record

cases handled and which proved that the county prosecutor was unrelenting in tracking down criminals was the Gonzalez case. This case had its inception when a gang of workers on the Minnewaska Trail, then under construction, were held up and robbed near Kerhonkson on the night of October 12, 1931. True, it was five years before the perpetrators of the crime were apprehended, but they were finally captured, brought to trial and sentenced to long terms in prison. One of them, Prudentio (Red Rubio) Gonzalez, who was tracked to West Virginia, and arrested there, was given a prison term of from 15 to 25 years. His brother, Jose Gonzalez, arrested in Paterson, N. J., was sent up for a term of from 10 to 15 years.

The following tribute was paid to Mr. Murray editorially, following the conviction obtained, against formidable legal opposition, in the Quick murder case (and in which, incidentally, arrests were made within 24 hours of committing of the crime): "The swift conviction of the murderers will make for even fewer murder cases in Ulster county and it is to the credit of our prosecutors, past and present, that we have had so few. District Attorney Cleon B. Murray of Ellenville is determined that no one shall get away with murder while he is a public prosecutor."

Early Life
The Republican candidate for district attorney is a son of Dayton Murray, secretary of the Roundout Savings Bank. He attended School No. 4 at Ponckhockie, the old Kingston Academy and then entered Cornell University, from which he graduated. He was president of the Cornell Law Association during his senior year and was a member of the Cornell Junior Varsity crew that established a world record at the American Henley regatta.

After being admitted to the bar in 1915 Mr. Murray practiced law in Kingston and then moved to Ellenville, where he has since made his home. He is married and has two children, a girl and a boy. In addition to his wide legal practice in Ellenville, he is a former police justice of the village and served as corporation counsel for a long term of years.

Fraternity Affiliations
Mr. Murray is a member of the Wurts Street Baptist Church of Kingston, Kingston Lodge No. 550, B. P. O. E., Wawarsing Lodge No. 582, F. & A. M., Wawarsing Chapter No. 246, R. A. M., Roundout Commandery No. 52, K. T., Cyprus Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, Albany Sovereign Consistory, Wawarsing Chapter, O. E. S., the Kingston Club, Scoresby House and Hook and Ladder Co. of Ellenville, John N. Cordis House Co. of Kingston and for years has been a member of and interested in the affairs of the Ulster County Farm Bureau.

A Fish Sign and A Fishing Story

The sign that for years has adorned the front of the former Von Berg Advance restaurant on Wall street was taken down Friday and in its place has been installed a new neon sign announcing Feye's bar and grill.

The new sign, in the shape of a big fish, attracted much attention when the lights were turned on for the first time Friday night. The fish opens and closes its mouth, blinks its eyes and in fact does everything but flip its tail and jump. Among fascinated observers Friday was Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne of Stony Hollow, who happened to drop into the court house across the street. Ray says the fish is the spitting image of one that got away from him while he was fishing in the reservoir not long since. That was about the same time that Ray tried to row in from the center of the west basin at the reservoir and after pulling away at the oars until his arms ached and he was red in the face from exertion without making much progress, but suddenly "came to" when he heard a voice from the shore yelling, "You'll get along faster if you pull up your anchor."

Invested Adhesive Stamp

Sir Rowland Hill, inventor of the world's first adhesive postage stamp, which appeared in 1840, was the object of much praise and much more criticism before his suggestion was adopted. One London newspaper said: "We consider this one of the most visionary schemes ever put forth. Mr. Hill, like many political economists, commits the blunder of making no allowance for the passions, the feeling, the habits and the stupidities of mankind. Imagine everyone having to buy stamps beforehand for his letters, or having to pay a penny for every letter posted! ... Looking at human society as at present existing, we are sure that it would never work."
